Officials Note No Change In Bus Contractor Threat

Baltimore (400 Cathedra)

The threat of 30 bus contractors terminating their contracts with the Garrett County Board of Education seems no more real or no more settled than in previous weeks, report Board officials and bus drivers alike.

"We just have to wait and see," said Kyle Bennett, president of the Garrett County Bus Contractors' Association, who would not comment whether he will be turning in his termination request or not. The Association met Friday evening where member: expressed disappointment at the news that neither the county commissioners nor Board of Education could come up with the four cents per mile raise they had requested.

Bennett pointed out at the meeting that each contractor held an individual contract with the Board and that the Associ ation had no legal basis for a group action. He stated each contractor would have to make his own decision whether or not to turn in the required 30 day termination request.

Eugene Flinn, supervisor of transportation for county schools, reports he has still received no termination requests.

Representatives for the bus contractors approached the Board of Education and county commissioners for the raise in the school board if their demands for an increase of four cents per August saying the state was not mile are not met. They feel reimbursement for gasoline and providing adequate compenmaintenance costs is not sufficient. However, with the possible sation for them to continue exception of some bus breakdowns, and one little lost guy who running their school buses. Speaker: Rev. Howard S. Ryan Married or Engaged Couples Only

*Thurs.: God's Golden Rule for Marriages *Fri.: Keeping the Romance in Your Marriage *Sat.: How to have a Decent Argument Invite your friends for these special nights! ALL ARE WELCOME

Rev. Ryan will be with us at all Sunday Services September 7th. He will be dealing with the subject of "The Providence

Alarming Statistics . . .

In 1900 approximately one in 13 marriages ended in divorce. In 1925 approximately one in seven marriages ended in divorce. In 1950 approximately one in four marriages ended in divorce. In 1978, slightly more than one in every two marriages, or 51%, ended in divorce. Statistically, within just a few decades, all marriages will fail.

These figures are alarming and there are some interesting parallels one might consider. It seems that as life becomes easier, the divorce rate climbs. Shorter work weeks, more vacation time, more modern conveniences and the lack of worrying about where the next meal is coming from all seem to create subtle, but significant, pressures on the marriage union. There was a time when basic survival depended upon the sticking-together of husband and wife.

Along those same lines, the changing role of women in the nation's society has also undoubtedly contributed to the increase in the divorce rate. With the majority of the workforce composed of women, most mothers are able to support themselves and their children, or at least make ends meet, without the financial help of the father. This has not always been the case.

Another contributing factor is that society no longer frowns so much on divorce. In fact, it seems almost like the "in-thing" to do.

In many cases divorce is the best course of action. Although it is a painful ordeal, sometimes the pain is greater for both spouses, and especially children, if parents remain together with no love between them.

However, there appears to be a frightening complacency here. Couples are not willing, and in many cases, don't know how to work at their marriages. Young couples are viewing marriage as a wonderful, continuous rose garden and they are shattered and unable to cope when a few of the roses wilt even a little bit. It is also a self-perpetuating problem, for how does a young person learn the procedures for making a good marriage when his or her parents are unable to follow them?

More education, outside of the home, is desperately needed. Perhaps a course on marriage and family, complete with lessons on communication within the home, should be a required course in all senior high schools.

The stability of the family unit is critical to the stability of society. The above statistics appear to ndicate that society is in trouble

You never mistake the meaning of a Church spire.

Even to those who are cold to the ideals for which the Church stands, that finger of faith always points to something that is comforting, reassuring, safe.

The very presence of a Church, whether in a crowded city street or on a quiet country road, is a benediction to all, including those who are not conscious of worship.

Such an influence, with what it means to those who open their hearts to truth, is worthy of a second thought. It merits acceptance as a refuge. It commands confidence as a port in

WHAT IS A

PROSTHESIS?

Prosthesis is an artificial device used to replace a missing part of the body, such as a heart valve, hip and/or knee joint, or even an eye. Today, substitute body parts can look so natural that in an emergency, it may be over-looked. For example, if a substitute eye is not removed on a regular basis, serious infection can occur in the eye socket.

Why some BBC hosts vanish from television

By RUTH THOMPSON

Some of television's most applauded host-narrators appear once, then vanish. (The exception was Kenneth Clark. who followed his "Civilisa-tion" series with the briefer 'Romantic Era.") You'd like to see them, with new material, year after year. But you're not apt to. Why?

these polished charmers are locked into lifelong scholarly pursuits in the field that gives them - or gave as in the case of the late Dr. Jacob Bronowski ("Ascent of Man") -

Several hosts also hold high posts with the British Broadcasting Company, and, with the exception of Sir Hew Wheldon, take several years' leave to travel the world for clues and examples of their topics. David Attenborough was in charge of program-ming for two BBC networks when he took off to give two years to probing primitive arts in "The Tribal Eye."

Sir Hew waited until he retired to give full time to probing the treasures of Britain's Royal Family for "Royal Heritage" and sucas narrators (Prince Phillip, Prince Charles) for sub-topics in which they were experts. As Sir Hew told us then, the BBC's assets from licensing fees were once generous enough to underwrite longterm projects as well as seasonal productions, and American funding was needed only for import costs. IF YOU ASK ME . . . 1. I've heard that the denser the carpet is, the better it is in terms of quality. Just what does carpet density mean? A carpet's density refers to how close together the carpet yarns are tufted. Density is measured by determining the number of tufts per square inch, but you can easily compare the densities of two carpet samples simply by their look and feel. As a general rule, the more yarn that is used and the closer it is tufted, the better the carpet.

What's Happening

Editor's Note: The following article was submitted by the Humanities Division of Garrett Community College.

As the days of summer grow shorter and a hint of autumn is in the air, colleges across the country are preparing to start fall semester classes. This year a trend that began several years ago will be quite evident in those classes, as increasing numbers of older students appear on the campuses. To serve the needs and interests of these students, many new and revised courses are being offered. Garrett Community College is no exception.

In the Humanities Division, several new courses have been developed, and several existing courses have been modified to make them more appealing to the adult part-time student and still meet the requirements of the academic programs.

A course that has been revised in its focus to serve the interests of a number of local residents is the Art Workshop which will be taught on Wednesday evenings by Tom Shimrock of the Cove. In this class Mr. Shimrock plans to emphasize two major mediums of artistic creation-stained glass and other artistic activities.

Mange is a form of skin irritation caused by small eightlegged creatures called mites. The two common types of mange in cats and dogs are demodectic mange or "red mange" and sarcoptic mange or scabies.

Pets usually develop mite infestations when their resistance is low. Poor diet, intestinal worms, even stress caused by rapid growth in young animals, allow mange mites to establish a colony under the skin. A well-nourished pet, free from intestinal worms, can better resist attacks from mites and other external

Red mange is more difficult to treat because the mites live in the follicles-deep, narrow passages where individual hairs emerge from the skin. As the young mites develop, they absorb nutrient material from the blood and cause individual hairs to drop out. Infected cats and dogs typically show bald spots under the eyes, on the forehead and on the front legs. The skin reddens, and may thicken and wrinkle, thus the name "red mange."

At one time, red mange was almost impossible to control in puppies and kittens. Some infected animals were even destroyed to prevent the mange from spreading through kennels and catteries. Today, modern oil-based ointments are reasonably effective in penetrating the skin follicles and eliminating these mites. Sarcoptic mange is identified by an itchy, scaly skin condition not seen in red mange. Short red raised lines indicate where the female mites have tunneled under the skin to lay their eggs. Scabs caused by the pet's scratching are also common, hence the term scabies

Sarcoptic mange also causes hair loss in cats and dogs, sometimes almost to the point of baldness. It spreads more rapidly than demodectic mange, and imparts a characteristic musky odor to the pet's fur.

Treatment for scabies includes repeated applications of a sulphur-containing ointment or other insecticide. A veterinarian's assistance in selecting the proper insecticide is important. Some products are toxic for cats. Other preparations must be thoroughly rubbed into the skin to reach the parasites. I strongly recommend you obtain and follow a veterinarian's

Strict sanitary procedures are necessary when dealing with mange. Bedding used for a mange-infected animal must be changed regularly until the infection is completely gone. Pregnant females should be examined and treated for mites so the parasites will not be transferred to newborn offspring. Dog breeders should be certain that their adult dogs are free of infestation before mating is attempted.

Island Creek Shuts Down Alpine Mine

VOLUME 103

Island Creek Coal Company has laid off over 80 employees in the final phase of a permanent shutdown of the Alpine Mine, located near Bayard, W. Va. Island Creek officials made the official announcement of the furlough to the employees after the last production shift Friday, August 29. Union officials had been notified Thursday, August 28 following a meeting at which the decision to shutdown the mine had been made.

Cliff Neal, spokesman, for the coal company, cited poor market conditions as one of the factors for the decision to shut down the mine. He added that the amount of coal left to be mined at Alpine no longer justified the costs of keeping the mine open.

The company had reduced the work force at the mine in mid-June by furloughing 25 employees. All were placed at other mine sites. Neal stated 20 miners have been retained at the site for DONATION TOWARD MINI-PUMPER — The First National Bank of Oakland recently donated a check for $500 to the Oakland Volunteer Fire Department, to be used to help defray the expense of a new mini-pumper truck on which the department took delivery approximately two weeks ago. Presenting the check to Oakland VFD Chief Buzz Updyke, right, is Ben Ridder, Director of Marketing for the FNB. The new apparatus, which is pictured in the background, is a specially equipped, four-wheel-drive vehicle which will be used for special fires, such as those involving flammable liquids and chemicals; automobile accidents; and brush fires, where terrain is too rough for conventional vehicles. The truck is equipped with a foam unit for extinguishing flammable liquid fires, a light generator and telescopic lights, class D and dry chemical fire extinguishers, Indian tanks, a 300 gallon per minute pump and 500 gallon tank. Approximately two-thirds of the cost of the vehicle was covered by a federal HUD grant and the remainder will be paid for by the fire department, via donations and fundraisers.

Wastes For Wastelands

Garrett County has been called a lot of things: Maryland's Playground, Maryland's Vacationland, The Mountaintop, Mountain Resort, Maryland's Icebox . . . There may soon be a new name added to the list, such as Baltimore's Outhouse

The mayor of Baltimore met recently with the county commissioners to discuss the possibility of hauling sludge from Baltimore City's sewage treatment plants and dumping it in abandoned strip mining sites in Garrett County (see story). It seems the city is having difficulty disposing of this waste because it is in such vast quantity. This comes as no surprise to some Garrett Countians.

All cynicism aside (Baltimore is a beautiful place to visit), the proposal appears as though it may be a good one. The use of this sludge in other areas for revegetation of barren areas, such as abandoned mine sites, has proved to be quite successful. The sludge is chemically treated prior to its dumping and it is similar in texture and appearance to peat moss. There is no odor to it and it is free of contaminates. It would be not only an inexpensive way of eliminating some of our eyesores, but Baltimore would also pay us a fee for allowing such dumping.

Hopefully, if and when the county commissioners ask for public opinion on the matter. citizens will examine the situation scientifically and practically and restrain any irrational emotion.

A large number of people throughout the country now wear contact lenses. In an emergency, these may pass unnoticed by emergency personnel so it is good to carry some identification that you wear them. It is recommended that lenses be removed from an

The rapid growth of cable TV makes ad support widespread and inevitable and its potential as an ad nedium is not being ignored. The key need, however, is for an accurate means of measur-ing cable audiences in order to supply ad agencies, cable systems and programmers with reliable info. The problem is that few really know much for sure about cable audiences To that end, an Ad Hoc Cable Measurement Committee has been formed under the leadership of Gabe Samuels of J. Walter Thompson and Bill Ryan of Palmer Communications. The committee has been actively soliciting research proposals designed to analyze the vari-ous means of providing cable audience measurement. research firms have been contacted and encouraged to subing with the audience-

Early recognition of symptoms of the disease by dog owners and rapid treatment by veterinarians, Dr. Karn added, are apparently responsible for the relatively small number of deaths. Symptoms include vomiting and/or diarrhea and unusual depression.

"I do not want to minimize the risk of this relatively new disease, but the survey tells us that there definitely is no epidemic of parvovirus in Maryland at this time," she declared. "This does not mean that dog owners and veterinarians should be complacent about the disease, which is primarily transmitted through the 'fecal-to-mouth' route. SAFETY WARNING to owners of older

John Deere Lawn and Garden Tractors

Deere Lawn and Garden Tractor can be especially important. The original boot (or cover) for the battery's positive post on

Model 60, 70, 100, 110, 112, 120 or 140 Tractors manufactured from 1963 through 1974 may have suffered from age or may have been lost or damaged. And if that positive battery post is not properly covered, there is danger of a spark causing a fire and bodily injury if you accidentally touch a metal gas can to the positive battery post when refueling the tractor. A more serious fire can result if you are not using a safety-approved gas can.

If you own one of the above models, John Deere wants to make absolutely certain that your tractor has the battery's positive post properly isolated. To make it easy—and safer—for you, we will send you a new cover, free. Just fill out the coupon provided below and mail it to the address shown. It comes complete with installation instructions and is not difficult to install. But if you prefer, after you have received your kit, make a date with your John Deere Lawn and Garden Tractor

Plans Developing Cathie Hesen To Be Crowned For Improvement 1980 Autumn Glory Queen Of County Airport

If plans are approved and funds gathered, the Garrett County Airport could become bigger and better in the years ahead with a runway extension, parking apron, taxiways and an office and public building. A master plan detailing such improvements is near completion according to Robert Railey of Garrettair, Inc.

Railey and his partner, Jim Gibson, have been working with Michael Baker, Jr., Inc., the Garrett County Commissioners and the Garrett County Airport Advisory Commission for the past two and one-half years to develop the master plan which is necessary to apply for federal funds to improve the airport. The plan provides for a 1700 foot extension of the runway, parallel taxi strips, new hangars, a main building, a parking apron and tie downs. The improvements, says Railey, will allow more airplane traffic in the county and will enhance the county's economy. The airport now can only serve small twin-engine

IT IS TRUE TODAY IN THE REAL BARGAINS

The Mud Thickens . . .

With Election Day just about seven weeks away, the presidential candidates are now shifting into high gear with their campaigns. The mud slinging, particularly between Reagan and Carter, has increased in intensity. The barbed comments tossed back and forth between the two, with the intent of smearing each other's character, seem to dominate the news coverage of the campaigns. The significant political issues and how the candidates specifically differ on those issues somehow get lost in the mire. It is these specific issues which should be stressed. If they are not discussed boldly and distinctly by the candidates, how can the voter be expected to make a wise decision at the polls?

Another messy tactic being employed in both of woe for the children in your these campaigns, which is almost comical at times, is the fabrication of a mountain out of a mole hill the moment one or the other candidate makes an off-thecuff remark. If Reagan would casually state that he likes chicken better than beef, the Carter supporters would immediately claim that Reagan is prejudiced against the beef producers of America. If Carter would say he enjoys a glass of wine before his Christmas dinner, the Reagan supporters would start the rumor that Carter is an alcoholic.

Perhaps if the candidates arrive at an agreement for a debate, their thoughts on some of the really important issues, which should be provided to the voter, will finally come to light.

Politics is a crazy game. Unfortunately, it is apparently impossible to win unless one tosses at least a little mud. Wouldn't it be refreshing to hear a candidate stand up and say, "Well, my opponent would make (or has been) a good president. However, I'd like to try some of my own ideas that just might work a little better."? He probably wouldn't have a prayer of winning, and that's a

Hunting Seasons Now Underway

by Al Bourgeois District Wildlife Manager

Marylands fall hunting season officially began for many area sportsmen Monday, September 15, with the opening of archery deer season. A major change from previous years however should be noted—the first month of archery season is for bucks only. After October 15 bow and arrow hunters will be allowed to harvest a deer of either sex except during the firearms season. During this season you may hunt with a bow but must comply with the regulations established for this season (Bucks only and wear fluorescent orange).

Deer hunters should also note that during the regular firearm lation is "increasing in most of (rifle) deer season November 29 through December 6 only bucks with antlers greater than 3 inches can be harvested. A separate antierless season will be held on December 12 and 13 when persons possessing an antlerless permit or those exempt from needing a permit are allowed to shoot an antler-

Bicentennial Tree To Be Dedicated

By Cindy Stacy Garrett Forestry Board Garrett County will dedicate its official Bicentennial tree September 27. Why this year? Or better yet, what happened to the tree so honored four years centennial? Very simply, the first tree an oak standing on the property of conservation and the projection retired educator, B. O. Aiken, of of forests from fire, insects and the Maryland Department of Accident, has died. However, Mr. Aiken, Garrett Forestry Board members and others have located a replacement and will officially honor a 250-year- Constitution Week old white oak living on the Jim

Chisholm farm near Gorman. The 100-ft. tree, standing in an property, will be feted in a brief ceremony beginning at 10 a.m., Saturday, September 27. Everyone is welcome to attend the dedication, which will include a flag raising and remarks from Maryland State Forester Tunis Lyon, Forestry Board chairman, Dr. F. D. Custer and Oakland broadcaster Tom Butscher. Visitors to the Chisholm farm that day are also invited to explore some of the farm's other natural wonders, including two trout streams, waterfalls of Ryan's Glade Run and 165 acres of hardwood and pine forests. Mr. Chisholm said, for example, he will mark trails to the waterfalls. The "re-dedication" of Garrett's Bicentennial Tree is one of many projects undertaken by the Garrett County Forestry Board. This summer, the board helped the Maryland Forest Service run a week-long conservation workshop at Camp Hickory for state youth. And

WHAT IS AN ALLERGY?

Allergy is a sensitivity to a specific substance (known as an aflergen) which in similar amounts is harmless to most people. Once a person becomes sensitive, there may be an unfavorable reaction on reexposure.

Any body organ may be involved in allergic reactions. The breathing system is often affected, resulting in swelling of the nasal membranes, called hay fever, and spasms in the bronchial tubes, called asthma. Various rashes including hives and eczema appear on the skin of some people.

For millions of viewers, the three young hosts of PBS's "3-2-1 Contact" have become much more than television heroes. Viewer reaction indicates that using real youngsters rather than adult hosts has made the series about science and technology come alive for children. And at least one prominent scientist believes that this approach to teaching science may help to reverse some of the negative feeling about the

In all of their travels across 22 states filming 70 short documentary stories for the daily series, the program's hosts Leon W. Grant (Marc), Liz Moses (Lisa) and Ginny Ortiz (Trini) - were aware of their roles as surrogates for their audience. "The questions we asked were the kinds of things that an average kid would want answered," said Ginny. "We wanted to be like standins for the kids, really make them feel they were there

"We also got to try out a lot of things that kids would want to try for themselves, like surfing, snorkeling and ballooning," Leon notes. He admits that like many in his audience, he had seen little relation between these activities and science until his tra-vels for the program. "Take riding in a roller coaster (a scene in an early episode of the series). At first I didn't realize where the science was, but there's a lot of physics "And who would think about ice skating involving science?" chimes in Liz Moses. "Yet it is knowing how to use natural forces that makes you able to use your body to make spins and turns. The children watching learn with us just how much science is involved in everything we

It is this surprise about discovery that a youngster needs to stimulate her or her own curiosity, believes Roger R. Johnson says, observing that even 9-year-olds feel this lack "When asked if their teachers really liked science, 60 per cent answered, 'I don't

Part of the reason may be the teacher's own lack of knowledge, he feels. "Too many teachers think they should know all the answers When students ask why the sky is usually a paler blue in winter, the teacher should admit that he or she doesn't know and suggest they they all check out some books or call a physics professor."

Liz Moses, Leon W. Grant and Ginny Ortiz, the three young co-hosts of "3-2-1 Contact," logged more than 30,000 miles visiting scientists at work. The year-old series is seen twice each weekday - in mid-morning (for school viewing) and before the series is over. It's interesting that they don't visit a science class. They do what television does best take you where you couldn't go yourself. Other segments show the trio figuring things out — why a doorbell won't ring in a vacuum, for example. It's nice to hear the word 'why again.

Just how real Marc, Lisa and Trini have become to their audience can be seen from the number of non-scientific questions they receive, about such things as their birthdates, ages and favorite colors Grant, Ms. Ortiz and Ms. Moses have been invited to a seventh birthday party in Stillwater, Okla., a home-cooked meal in Holliston, Mass., a Sunday outing on a New England farm and a summer vacation in North Carolina. And then there was the skeptic who questioned one of Marc's performances. "Were you really sick or are you faking?" he asked Responds Leon Grant with a grin, "How true to life can you get?

Milk Production Up One Percent

Milk production in Maryland during July totalled 126 million pounds, up one percent from last year, but two percent below June, announced the Maryland-Delaware Crop Reporting Service. Increased milk per cow more than offset the decline in milk cow numbers. Milk per cow increased 45 pounds from last year to a total of 1.005 pounds for July. During June, the average price received by Maryland farmers for milk delivered to plants averaged $12.87 per hundred-weight on a 3.50 percent butterfat basis. Actual deliveries during June averaged $12.90 per hundredweight, up $.80 from June 1979. The preliminary price for July is also $12.90 per hundredweight, $.70 above a year earlier. The July butterfat test is estimated at 3.50 percent.

Prices paid for feed during July were above last year for cottonseed meal, bran, and middlings. However, prices were down for 32 percent dairy

Persons who filed an initital claim for unemployment insurance benefits from July 21, 1979 through August 24, 1979, who have exhausted their benefits, and who are still unemployed may now be eligible for extended benefits as the result of a recent court decision, according to the Maryland Department of Human Resources.

The U. S. District Court for the District of Columbia recently determined that the U. S. Department of Labor had incorrectly calculated the national insured unemployment rate, which is used to determine when extended benefits begin.

Following the court decision, the U.S. Department of Labor determined that the national insured unemployment rate reached 4.5 percent for a thirteen week period ending July 5, 1980, thus beginning the extended benefits program on July 20, 1980, instead of the previously announced date of August 24, 1980.

What were you doing last Thursday night at approximately 10 p.m.? Watching TV? Reading a book? Sleeping? Sitting in a lounge with some friends? Looking down the barrel of a loaded, high powered deer rifle and expecting to be blown away

The last activity in the above list is precisely what some individuals, namely members of the Oakland City Police, the Garrett County Sheriff's College, Room LC-154, begin-Department and the Maryland State Police, were doing at that time during a shooting incident in Oakland (see story, page 1). These persons literally placed their lives on the line in order to carry out their responsibilities as law officers. They did their job well, for nobody was injured in the incident.

We feel such a courageous act was above and beyond the call of duty by these officers and should not go by without comment. Although these people are trained to handle this type of crisis, it requires more than that. Training does not eliminate the element of intense fear associated with such a their mothers. situation. The officers maintained a professional cool, in spite of fear, and avoided a tragedy.

The front page of this newspaper, for the past several weeks, has been loaded with news about the many arrests made by local law enforcement personnel, for everything from grand larceny to breaking and entering to drug violations to gambling. Many of these arrests have been the result of long and complicated investigations. We salute the efforts of these people. Police officers are human and they do make mistakes. There are also, undoubtedly, some individuals who should not be police officers. This is true of every profession. However, it's unfortunate that the good officers must also bear the brunt of disapproval and abuse from the public which is so quick to criticize and so slow to commend.

Officers, we thank you for going to such great lengths to uphold the law and making life safer for

This Saturday The Garrett County Sanitary Commission will conduct a public hearing Saturday, September 27 on a revised plan for the proposed Deep Creek Lake sewerage facilities and the proposed Deep Creek Sanitary District boundaries. The engineer for the proposed project will explain the project and changes in it during the hearing which will begin at 9:30 a.m. in the Auditorium at Garrett Community College, McHenry. The public will be allowed to ask questions and make comments.

Revisions to the proposed project were made after several studies undertaken due to adverse comments at the July 5 public hearing.

Areas affected by the changes and the project are: Marsh Hill Road, McHenry and including the College, Route 219 from McHenry to Sand Flat, a portion of Rock Lodge Road, Lake Shore Drive, a portion of Glendale Road, Meadow Mountain Run Road (State Park Road) including the State Park, Beckman's Peninsula, Harvey's Peninsula, a portion of Paradise Point Road, and Mayhew Inn Road.

There's nothing like re-living memories in pictures. For the first time, there is a very special book which collects many of these memories: Allegany County: A Pictorial History by Lee G. Schwartz Al Feldstein and Joan H. Baldwin.

In over 300 well-captioned photographs and accompanying text, the evolution of the county from founding to modern times is depicted. The limited collector's edition is beautifully bound, 8½ by 11, numbered and autographed, with special binding, and is a $29.95 value. There are only 1500 in print, and each one will increase in value over the years (that is, if you can put a price on history). Be among the early numbers, and order now. For each book sold, we will donate one dollar to the Allegany County Historical Society, so we at First Federal can help to preserve the memories for the future.

Joshua doesn't "beat around the bush," but comes straight to the point: "And if you be unwilling to serve the Lord, choose this day whom you

This is a severe allergic reaction which usually develops very rapidly and may be fatal. The symptoms can vary and may comprise a combination of many of all of the following: red face, itching, hives, nausea, cramping, vomiting, involuntary bowel action, collapse of the circulatory system,

This reaction can occur in a time span of from two minutes to two hours. Almost any allergen can cause anaphylaxis. John Hurt made a 1,000 mile trip, with three stopovers, to film a scene that takes exactly 30 seconds in "Crime and Punishment," the four-part series that opens Masterpiece Theater's 10th season on Sunday, Sept. 28 on

Hurt plays Raskolnikov in the Dostoevsky classic thriller about a penniless student obsessed with the idea that he is so superior to others that he can commit murder without suffering guilt or penalty for examining magistrate (Timo thy West) who patiently per mits the murderer to trap himself.

SOAP OPERA WEEK

Changes at 'DOOL'; 'RH' goes to Ireland By NANCY M. REICHARDT nightclub performer long

HOLLYWOOD - Days of Our Lives" has probably undergone more cast changes than any other soap in the past few months, and now there are a few more. Includin the cast were Patch McKenzie as attorney Victoria Wallis and Richard Hill as Kyle McCullough, Exiting, but not for good, was Richard Guthrie (David Banning), who will return to the show from time to time since he's no longer a contract player. An ex-"Days" cast member who's back in the soap scene is Margaret Mason, who portrayed the evil Linda Anderon. Margaret's new role of Eve Howard on "The Young and the Restless" will undoubtedly be similarly evil, since Eve is already out to get support money for herself and her son, Charles Victor, from Genoa City's Victor Newman. A lot of "Y&R" fans are very disappointed, but it's official Beau Kavzer has left his role of Brock Reynolds. It hasn't been decided yet whether his vacated role will be dropped altogether or re-cast. New Directory Of Labor Organizations Recently Released

Harvey A. Epstein, Maryland Commissioner of Labor and Industry, has released the second edition of the Directory of Labor Organizations in Mary-

It is the only state-wide publication of its kind in print and is designed to facilitate communication among Maryland's organized labor force, the citizens and the state government. The directory was updated in response to the many requests received by the Commissioner of Labor and Industry from citizens, government, business and industry for current information on those unions operating in Maryland, their membership, election dates, and officers. "I hope that this document will continue to be a valuable resource for the citizens of our state," said Commissioner Epstein. All participating labor organizations are listed in the directory by classification of workers with business addresses, names and addresses of officials and district or council affiliations.

Copies may be obtained free of charge by writting the Division of Labor and Industry, 203 East Baltimore Street, Baltimore, Maryland 21202 or calling 659-4194.

Beer. Wine Tax Revenues Higher

Maryland State Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein announced yesterday that alcohol and tobacco tax receipts for August 1980 amounted to $8,444,523, marking an increase of 18.4% compared to the $7,132,264 collected during August 1979.

"While tobacco tax receipts were the greatest factor in the increased collections, attributable to the increase in the cigarette tax rate, both beer and wine tax receipts showed unusual growth for August 1980," Mr. Goldstein stated.

Tobacco tax receipts totaled $5,767,608 for August 1980, showing a gain of 23.9% over the $4,652,804 received during August 1979. This increase reflected the hike in the cigarette tax rate from 10° to 13° per pack, which took effect July 1, 1980, as a result of the 1980 session of the General Assembly.

At the same time, each of the three alcoholic beverages tax sources exhibited growth over August 1979. Beer tax receipts jumped 17.8%, with collections amounting to $935,923 for August 1980. August 1979 collections totaled $794,236.

Wine tax receipts totaled $305,998 for August 1980, reflecting a 14.3% increase over the $267,651 collected during August 1979.

Distilled spirits tax receipts for August 1980 amounted to $1,512,452, an increase of 3.3% over the $1,462,827 received during August of last year.

Alcohol and tobacco tax receipts for the first two months of Fiscal Year 1981 showed an overall growth of 47.2% com-
